HERO WORSHIP.

"There is something so peculiarly striking in his appearance," said the Speckled Hen, with her head on one side, as she looked across the yard at the Black Cock.

"Particularly," said the White Hen, pecking at a worm. "Graceful and dignified at the same time."

"Quite so," chimed in the Spanish Hen, who was proud of possessing the same glossy black feathers and white face as the much-admired Black Cock. "The very air with which he crosses the yard proclaims him to be of princely descent."

"And his crow! Did you ever hear anything to be compared to that?" added the Speckled Hen. "Such a torrent of rich melodious sound, so well sustained! — so perfect in intonation!"

"Ah, how unlike the poor, cowardly 'White Cock,'" said the Spanish Hen.

"Ho crow!" exclaimed the White Hen. "Why, he never ventures to make his voice heard, unless the Black Cock is out of sight. I am positively ashamed of my color."

"I only wonder the Black Cock allows him to remain in the yard at all," said the Speckled Hen. "If I were he, I would soon peck such a coward away."

"Coward he is indeed," echoed the Spanish Hen. "To see him scampering round and round the yard, looking frightened out of his wits if the Black Cock does but glance in his direction! one laughs even to think of it. And he is half as large again as the Black Cock."

"Ah, it is an instance of moral superiority," said the White Hen.

"But did you ever see any one so awkward as the 'White Cock?'" asked the Speckled Hen. "He holds his head well—yes, I can deny it. And to his 'crow!' Listen! It is not musical, perhaps, but it is more powerful than the Black Cock's."

"Well, I never should have expected the Spanish Hen," said the White Hen, exultingly, adding with some hesitation, "Don't you think—don't you fancy, the White Cock has improved just a little in his looks? There is certainly something noble in his appearance, after all."

"There, certainly is," said the Speckled Hen gravely. "He holds his head well—yes, I can deny it. And to his 'crow!' Listen! It is not musical, perhaps, but it is more powerful than the Black Cock's."

"And power is the undoubted characteristic of a good crew," said the Spanish Hen.

"The Black Cock's crew was always somewhat weak," said the Speckled Hen, forgetting her flowing eulogy of a few days earlier.

"Always," added the White Hen. "He is a poor, thin creature, too. I wonder we never perceived the advantages possessed by the White Cock in point of appearance."

The others agreed with her in thinking that they must have been strangely blind. Thenceforth they,

In the year 1717 there was a great war between the Germans and Turks.

The brave marshal, Prince Eugene, won many victories over the infidels;

and such was the spirit then abroad

in Germany, that nearly every village sent men to assist the Emperor. From the village of Hermannsburg rode forth the brave knight Staffhorst,

with his two esquires, Peter Paesch and Hans Puffel. Peter Paesch, full of grief at the death of his beloved master, pursued the flying Turks;

was surrounded and taken prisoner.

They tied him to his horse's tail, a

Turk mounted the horse, and Paesch had to run by his side barefoot. The Turks had robbed him of everything.

Late in the evening they halted in a wood, to take revenge on their Christian prisoners at their leisure.

First, they crossed two stakes, and spat on the cross, and tried, by blows

and tortures, to force Paesch to do the same; but in vain. They then tied his hands and feet together, and struck him with knives, daggers, to force him to spit on the cross, but to no purpose. They then nailed his hands over his head, to a tree, and whipped him, to make him pronounce

the name of Mohammed; but he knew that this would mean in their view, a denial of His Master, Christ;

and as often as they told him to say

Mohammed, he cried out: "Jesus Christ!"

The armed Turks then kindled a fire at his feet; he now believed his end near, and prayed earnestly and devoutly, repeating the Lord's Prayer.

God gave him such inward

peace in this terrible conflict that, in imitation of Stephen, he prayed sincerely for his enemies; and having done so, he was filled with such holy joy that he sang, with a strong voice

the German hymn, "O Lamb of God,

O innocent Lamb of God, claim on the cross for us!"

When he had sung to the end of the third verse, ending,—

"Grant us thy peace, O Jesus, Amen!"

the clang of trumpets was heard outside the forest! About seven German horsemen rode in; the Turks fled;

and the soldiers beheld, with horror,

Poor Paesch, nailed by the hands to the tree, and a fire burning at his feet! When he unbonded him, he fell fainting into their arms.

After they had bound up his wounds, clothed and refreshed him,

his first question was, how God had sent them to his aid just at the right moment to save him from a cruel death?

They replied: "We were sent out in pursuit of the Turks, and when we heard from the forest the sound of the hymn,—

"Glorious Lamb of God!"

'that is a Christian,' we said; and so rode with all speed into the woods.

It is the Lamb of God, in whom thou trusted, Paesch, who saved thee."

So they brought him to Belgrade,

and told his escape to Prince Eugene,

who had him carried for and visited him. As he was now unfit for service, the prince sent him back to his own country.

Ten years after this event he died, singing upon his death-bed his favorite hymn, the memorial to him of his wonderful deliverance.

STATE NEWS.

It is bad enough to witness the political profligacy, corruption, oppression and tyranny to be found in the Executive and Legislative branches of the government, but it is much worse to find political profligacy in the judiciary.

The result of the political contest now being waged between the Bench and the Bar will long be remembered in the judicial as well as the political annals of the State.

The decision of the contest makes more history than the Court ever made or ever will make again—unless it be the history to be made by the impeachment of the Court for the infliction of cruel, unusual and unconstitutional punishment upon the Bar for the performance of a pious and patriotic and Constitutional duty in signing the protest.

It is not a contest between the Bench and the Bar alone—when the Bench shall have silenced the Bar, they will have but begun the work.

The people must be silenced, the spirit of liberty must be silenced before victory perches on the side of the Bench.

The Bar of North Carolina was once composed of a set of high-spirited gentlemen, who, whether they had, or had not, signed the protest, would not shrink from one letter or syllable of it. This exhortation of the Bar from the practice of their profession, because of their political opinions, is but the Holden system of exclusion from office and place on account of political opinions. The infamous policy was carried out in the election of Judges, in the selection of Trustees for the University, in the selection of teachers for the same, and even in the selection of labourers for Railroads and public works.

There is no room for concession or conciliation even on the part of the Bar. We bear that it is a question of bread with many of the Bar. We name only to soon such a argument. If they are unwilling to risk something for public good and public liberty, they should risk something, yes, suffer hunger, rather than bear the stain which apology, concession, or conciliation, would place upon their names forever. The requirements of the Court can be complied with only by self-abasement, cowardice and treachery to the protest, the Constitution, justice and truth.

The Holden system of exclusion from employment and place has been used to destroy and distress, or corrupt and pollute, every class and condition of our people. The learned professors and teachers who are acceptable to parents and guardians, are excluded from professor's chairs, because of opinions sake.

Pool, Brewster, Patrik & Company, play dogs in the inanger, if not with the approval, at least with the quiet acquiescence of the Court.

Humble laborers, section masters and station agents on railroads have been driven from their employment because of opinions sake, or forced to bow their head in shame and vote for the shameless Governor upon whose "shameless" brow even shame itself should be ashamed to sit."

The law is not the only means of living in this once free land, but neither the law nor liberty can long live upon the arbitrary terms of the Court for the practice of the law.

The true principle upon which Republican government should be founded, is, that the people should suspect all who hold offices and places of public trust, as willing to make a breach, and abuse the trust, when the breach will serve to their benefit.

All men in office arrogate to themselves probity, purity and ability. The man who has least of these virtues will arrogate to himself the most.

Holden will arrogate to himself as much as all the Judges; shall the people, shall the bar, be forbid to question the political integrity of the signer and seceder from secession?

Without wishing to give offence, we tell the Governor and the Court they are suspected by the people, suspected of political trickery, treachery and hypocrisy.

They are known to have sworn to support the Government of the United States, and the Government of the Confederate States, and they have proven themselves treacherous and false to one if not both.

The political virtues of the Court are not sufficient guarantees for the faithful discharge of their duties—

Think you that it will be allowed for the Judiciary or any branch of the government to punish citizens, members of the bar, for essaing the political actions or questioning the political integrity of the Court. If so, what will become of Sid Bryan, the policeman, who arrested Judge Jones as a drunken nuisance, and actually got him to the city prison door, when friends came and begged him not to incarerate the judge. Look at the two cases, which is the greatest contempt of Court, the mild-dignified and courteous protest of the bar or the actual seizure and collaring of a Judge, by a policeman? How can reforms be made or abuses corrected in the Judiciary if the people and the bar are to be punished for remonstrating and "protesting" against what they deem abuses to the Judiciary. The Court may get indignant, they may deny what is charged against them, as they did in the last cause, but they dare not punish their political adversaries for protesting against their political conduct.

The extraordinary verdict of the hundred thousand dollars damages in the Sprague-Craig breach of promise case will excite attention throughout the country, and probably produce a large crop of similar suits. The explanation of the verdict is, that the jury were convinced that Sprague not only violated his contract to marry Miss Craig, but lied about her, and conspired against her to blast her character.

WEST POINT.—Robert London and Calvin D. Cowles are the Cadets appointed to West Point from North Carolina.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.—Report of proceedings of Saturday continued:

U. S. vs. John T. Dawson. Use of Franking privilege contrary to law. District Attorney for Government. Judge Merrimon for Defendant. Verdict guilty. Motion in arrest of judgment—Rail. Sentinel.

COMMUTED.—The death sentence of Bayline, one of the Wade Ditcher murderers, in Halifax county, has been commuted by the Governor, to imprisonment for life.—W. J. Journal.

ESCAPED.—We understand that a number of prisoners sentenced to the work house, made their escape last night from the work house and many of them are still at large.—Raleigh Sentinel.

GOLD.—We learn from the Living Present that some nuggets of gold, of considerable size, and almost pure, were discovered on the public square in Warrenton, by hands engaged in working on the square.—Rail. Sentinel.

FRANK JOHNSON NOT DEAD.—The report published by us a day or two since in regard to the death of "old Frank Johnson" as he was familiarly known, is contradicted. One of his acquaintances, a highly respectable colored man of this city, reports positively that he saw him in the vicinity of Charlotte Thursday night last. Old Frank, he says, was still alive and kicking, and what is more, still playing the fiddle.—W. J. Journal.

TO HIGH.—A merchant informed us that he paid $1.25cts for a barrel of Vinegar from Kittrill's, Springs to Raleigh, distance 60 miles. The freight from New York would not have been more, and from Baltimore less than from Kittrill's. Orange farmer, on the train to-day complained that he paid more freight on a ton of hogs from Norfolk than he paid for the time. The true policy of our Railroads should be to carry all fertilizers free of charge. Their profits would be in the increased produce of the tonnage shipped upon the Road.—Rail. Sentinel.

ROGUE CAUGHT.—A colored rogue calling himself James Caphart was yesterday arrested and a quantity of stolen goods recovered. On a search warrant issued by Justice McGaugh Caphart, together with an old workhouse bird who is yet at large, broke into the ware room of Messrs. Drane & Jones, contractors, at Meade's Bluff Thursday night last, and carried off a quantity of bacon, pork, tobacco, etc., with which the hands employed by these gentlemen were to be supplied. The plunder was placed in a boat and brought to this city. There were many little circumstances which led to the detection of Caphart and the recovery of the articles where he had sold them. He has been committed to jail to await an examination to-morrow.—W. J. Journal.

BEST HOGS FOR THE SOUTH.—Among the difficulties the planters of the South have to contend with, is a meager supply of meat. With the negro there can be no substitute for hog meat. A full stomach of it will only make him dream more of its next meal. How important it is, then, for us all to obtain a full supply of this admirable article. The bulk of the labor must and will be done by the negro, and we must feed him to make him valuable. Steps are being taken to import the best breeds of hogs, as many conceive. At present, a perfect mania prevails in favor of Chester whites, and every other variety of the white hog—when every man who has tried the white hog, knows it the least desirable of any variety ever produced in the South; not that it lacks size or possesses objectionable qualities, but that all white hogs in this climate become worthless from diseased skin and die up. The Berkshire and Woburn crossed properly, surpasses every other breed. The Berkshire is a compact hog, can be fattened at any age, whilst the Woburn has immense size and cannot be fattened under two years; but by blending the two breeds, that difficulty is obviated. At fifteen months your hogs, with ordinary treatment, will weigh from two hundred to four hundred pounds.

In Kentucky, within the last few years, the hog raisers have imported the large bald face, Berkshire, black body, tips of tail and feet white, and these are now being crossed by the Woburn to give additional size. The Chester white will not do to fill the smoke-house. You who want a hog that will yield the most meat, apply for information to some of the Kentucky mule drovers, and my word for it, ten dollars will bring you a pig that will do to breed from.

A GOOD BAND OF MUSIC

Will be at the Springs the entire season, and a good Physician permanently located for the benefit of invalids, who will have every attention.

Having secured the services of Mr. N. G. Ayer, of Virginia, a man of great experience and skill, a high-class Hotel keeper, visitors may rest assured that my table will be supplied with the best the market can afford, and everything done that will add to their comfort and pleasure.

These Springs are new in a fine condition, rooms large and pleasant, and good cottages containing from two to six rooms each, well arranged for either large or small families.
